Apprenticeship Programs

Apprenticeship is a combination of on-the-job and in-school training for employment in a skilled trade. On average, 90% of the training takes place in the workplace with instruction by certified journeypersons. The remainder involves classroom instruction delivered at a college of applied arts and technology or other approved training delivery agents.

- There are more than 150 apprenticeship trades in four sectors: construction, industrial/manufacturing, motive power and in the service sector.

- Both EI and non-EI apprentices may be eligible for financial supports for in-school training and completion incentives from governments.
- Apprenticeship programs usually take 2–5 years and are offered by various organizations, such as colleges and approved apprenticeship training deliverers.

Self-Employment Benefit Program

The Ontario Self-Employment Benefit Program supports individuals who would like to start a business in the local area where the applicant is applying.
