TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS RATE, ACTUAL INCIDENCES (2009-2016)

- The chart shows that Peel Region (Mississauga/Brampton) has higher rates of human trafficking, including actual incidences, when compared to Canada, Ontario, and Toronto, especially in 2016.

THE VOICES OF SURVIVORS AND MOTHERS OF TRAFFICKING VICTIMS

Powerlessness

- Wherever Mothers turned to, they did not get professional help (police, health services, and/or counselling services) when they tried to help their daughters.
- “So, you know for me, there is absolutely no support. There is no services at the front end to help us parents to prevent this from happening. And I knew in my mind that this could happen to her. And I still could not stop it. I could not stop it with the help of police. I could not stop it with the help of social worker. I could not stop it with the help from agencies. It is like snowballing effect there is nothing in place to help us parents to help stop this process.” - Mother of a Survivor.

Not being heard, or being misunderstood when they sought assistance

- “I guess my problem is what really pissed me off was I am kind of differentiated, my trauma is not as big as the other girls, ok yeah I was in only five months. Ok yeah my parents. I was lucky that they got me out, all in all, but we all made the same choices to come out, we all had the same trauma as we have gone through the same thing.” - Survivor
